BACKGROUND

Anneli has enjoyed over 10 years in management and leadership roles across several industries and now specialises in assisting companies to better understand why their people do what they do and how to get the best out of them!

She does this by working with Language and Behaviour (LAB) Patterns – the below conscious drivers of motivation. She is the only Australian qualified Trainer and Consultant in both the iWAM (Inventory of Work Attitudes and Motivations) and LAB Profiling tools (Language and Behaviour) – both aimed at decoding below conscious motivations through the study of language patterns.

With an intuitive and supportive style, Anneli skillfully employs powerful questioning techniques and proven transformational change strategies to assist individuals to explore, expand and engage in creating outstanding personal results, on their own terms. She is pleased to combine her focused study of human behaviour, coaching skills and solid corporate background to also assist organisations to deliver superior sustainable business results through developing an engaged, passionate and committed workforce.

Anneli offers her expertise to clients through coaching, facilitation, presentations or modeling and replicating excellence throughout companies. She has worked with organisations such as ANZ, Boral, Ford, Vodafone, and Linfox to name just a few.

Anneli is also delighted to be named a finalist in the 2010 'Coach of the Year' Awards for ANZI Coaching and is humbled and honoured by the support she has received for her nomination from clients and colleagues alike.
